Q: Xcode 8.3.2 Welcome Screen I have just installed Xcode 8.3.2 on Mountain Lion (10.12.3), and was greeted with the following screen. No problem. I then tried to open the welcome screen for a new project, and nothing happened. The only way I could get to the welcome screen was via Xcode's Preferences panel. I had been using Xcode 8.3.1 without any problems, so I am wondering if Xcode 8.3.2 has altered Xcode's behavior in a way I'm not aware of. Thanks! A: I figured out the answer to my own question. I'm running Xcode 8.3.2 on macOS Sierra 10.12.4, but I have the following versions of the Xcode Developer Tools installed. Xcode 8.3.2 Xcode 8.3.1 SDKs/CLI 21.1.14 However, I didn't realise that my iOS 9.3.5 device had a Xcode 8.3.2 installed. This was causing my problem, because the SDKs/CLI used for the Welcome screen of a new project was a lower version. I recently upgraded to macOS Sierra 10.12.4, and discovered that Xcode 8.3.2 no longer allows the Xcode CLI to be used for the Welcome screen. I'm not certain why, because the CLI is still valid for the rest of Xcode 8.3.2, as well as the Xcode 8.3.1 that Xcode 8.3.2 was built from. I would like to know if Xcode 8.3.2 supports the Xcode CLI for Xcode 8.3.2 or Xcode 8.3.1. // // Generated by class-dump 3.5 (64 bit) (Debug version compiled Oct 15 2018 10:31:50). // // class-dump is Copyright (C) 1997-1998, 2000-2001, 2004-2015 by Steve Nygard. // #import #import @class NSString; @interface FCDisplayURLToImageExtension : NSObject

What's New In Adobe Photoshop CC 2015 Version 16?

The developer of the controversial Gold Coast University Hospital has been hit with an escalating battle over demolition approvals. The City of Gold Coast has received an 11-page application for demolition of buildings on the site, a district council spokesman confirmed. The Nunn family, who own the site, have already made public their plans for a private hospital for rich people, and on Friday the Gold Coast Bulletin published further plans for the same site. The City of Gold Coast issued a permit for demolition on the site in March. The Nunn family are reportedly planning to spend around $1 billion on a new "family-orientated" hospital facility that will treat up to 300 private patients. The new plans are for a 1500-square-metre hospital block with double-height corridors — 10 per cent of the site's existing floor space — a surgery block and research facility. It will include 21 new research beds to replace the ones demolished at the hospital in March. A new business park and estate with 380 new units will be built on the rest of the site. The new hospital would be owned by a newly-formed not-for-profit entity, to be called the Gold Coast University Health, whose members could include the Nunn family, entities affiliated with the family, business associates and key stakeholders. The entity would have an initial paid-up capitalisation of $10 million and, subject to regulatory approval, would contribute a further $50 million to undertake the first stage of the project. It will also raise $100 million to construct the new facility, and has a further option to raise another $400 million. The Board of Health would appoint a board, at least 51 per cent of whose members would be Nunn family members. Acting Health Minister Jo-Ann Miller has previously said she has serious concerns about the Nunn family's application, and last month the Health Department's head of nursing policy Carole Mears said the board would not be best-placed to oversee patient care. The Nunn family's plan for the hospital is controversial because the public was not involved in the decision to close the hospital, which was on the chopping block for years, and the family want to cut corners to get on with the project. The Health Department has been looking for a federal government handout to fund the facility, but is likely to have to fund the first stage through its own budget. The council is concerned
