This move, detailed by the Bank of England's Quarterly Bulletin, is designed to tackle "unreliable asset valuations" as the value of gold drops. This announcement came after the Bank's Financial Stability Report revealed the drop in the value of gold, from over $1,800 per ounce in 2010 to $1,155 in May 2014. The reaction of the markets is one of extreme concern, with the S&P 500 stock index falling over 2.5% as the gold price drops to a new all-time low below $1,100. #Bitcoin ha transito sul campo di minoranza - con una crescita di circa il 50%, e ora si trova a 73,69 dollari.
