Being male is not a disease, It is a state of mind. since the beginning of time the HONEST "golden rule" of society has been TO TREAT ALL PEOPLE THE SAME. This is never questioned in the public sphere, however it is an exercise in futility in the "face to face" interaction zone. If I were to stick out my tongue at you and call you a LOAD of CRAP, I am doing so because of a belief that you are unworthy of the same respect that I hope to always treat to all. I know that not all men do this, but you are not going to get this respect by behavior and you are not going to create and keep this respect with deceit and treachery (e.g. sexual harassment; faking an STD for attention; etc. etc.) I am not saying that men don't and shouldn't treat women with respect, because they do. The fact that you have not respected this, is WHY I felt the need to tell you. I chose to be honest with you because I believe that honesty is the best policy.
